

Volume 7

April 30, 2018

This month, the SDCOE Cybersecurity team discusses the concepts of data security (the fence) versus data privacy (stuff in the house), which can often leave end-users both confused and perhaps unaware of basic protections that should be in place in the digital arena.

"For the vast majority of people, the concept of cybersecurity is mainly focused on tips such as using strong passwords and not clicking on suspicious links. With Facebook now in the news headlines, the principles of basic data privacy are beginning to enter the equation."
